

50 Signs That A Girl Likes You

By

Dating Logic

1. She Looks At You Often

You may catch her looking at you from time to time. She will be typically looking into your face. She may look away when you look at her. However, if you have caught her looking at you multiple times, there is a very good chance that she likes you.

2. She Gives You Lingering Smiles

Some girls may smile at a guy to be polite. However, those smiles are typically brief and doesn't involve much of her face. A girl that likes you will typically give you a lingering smile that literally lights up her face as though she is using every facial muscle to do it. It lingers for much longer than a smile she would give to a guy that she was just being polite to.

3. She Preens

She starts playing with her hair, fiddling with her handbag or adjusting her clothing in some way. This is preening. She does this because she either gets nervous and wants to direct her focus to something else or she is just doing it because it is something familiar. Either way, it is a reaction to you and she is showing that she likes you.

4. She Looks You Up And Down

When her eyes look you up and down, she is checking you out. She may do it quickly in the hopes that you don't notice as she would normally use her eyes to do this and not a whole head movement. She would typically end this with a look away just so that she doesn't make it too obvious.

5. She Dresses Sexier And More Revealing

She will use her physicality to show you how much she likes you. She may wear tighter fitting clothing or something that shows more skin. She would typically do this when she knows that you will be around and she may glance in your direction several times to see if you notice her look. She may even walk by you several times with a sexy walk in the hopes that you notice her.

6. She Puts On Makeup More Frequently Even For Mundane Activities

If she knows that she is going somewhere that you will also be present, she puts on more extra makeup than she normally does. Whether she knows that she is going to see you at the gym or in class, she puts on a little extra just so that she looks more appealing.

7. She Touches You Often

She will touch you more. Typically on your lower arm, upper thigh or your face. She does this to create a physical connection. Touch is also a very strong indicator of attraction. She will often do this when she is talking to you so as not to appear too obvious with it and she may even do it unconsciously.

8. She Asks About You

If you have mutual friends with her, you may hear from time to time that she was asking someone about you. She may have been asking questions about where you went to school or what you do for a living. She may even ask about your family. She will do this with mutual friends, acquaintances, even strangers.

9. She Will Actively Follow You On All Of Your Social Media Accounts

She will become very involved in communicating with you on all of your social media platforms, not just one. She will try to engage with you on those platforms and will often like your posts or comments. She will do this on a consistent basis and you will often notice that she is on your accounts checking out what you are doing consistently throughout the day.

10. She Gives You A Nickname

This is not the nickname that you are called by other people like your friends or family. This is a unique nickname that she gives you alone. It could be a variation of your name or a word that describes your physicality or a facet of your personality. This is how she makes you special and unique to her and her alone.

11. She Goes Out Of Her Way To Do You Favors

You may not have even asked her for the help but she gives it anyway. Whether it was help you needed with a particular task or with making some kind of deadline or running an errand of some sort, she will often volunteer her help without you requesting it.

12. She Compliments You Often

She often compliments you on your physique or a part of your physicality. She compliments a particular talent or skill that you have. She makes sure that you are aware of her complimenting you and she will typically do it with a smile.

13. She Inflates Your Ego

You may not be the best at playing basketball or at fixing something but she will tell you that you are amazing anyway. She will tell you how much you were a life saver by helping her with this or that even though you know full well that anyone else could have done it without much effort. She inflates your ego in this way to make you feel good in the hopes that you will think about her in a positive light.

14. She Tells Friends To Put In A Good Word

She may use her friends to get to you. She tells a friend who may know you or who may work with you to mention her during conversation with you. You may be a co-worker of this person and you begin to notice that this co-worker always seems to mention her name in some capacity. The co-worker may tell you that she went out with her the other night and she was so much fun.

15. She Tries To Gain Your Sympathy

She may be having a particularly bad day and she lets the world know about it. She may tell it to her friend or colleague while you happen to be in earshot. She may linger for a while and glance at your corner from time to time in the hopes that you will empathize with her.

16. She Acts Helpless

She tries to get you to help her with something that she has had no trouble doing in the past. If you are in the gym, she may suddenly start asking you about how to use a particular piece of equipment that she has used multiple times before. Somewhere else, she will ask you if you could kindly reach up and grab an item at the top shelf even though she can easily find other ways to get to that item.

17. She Frequently Asks For Your Expert "Manly" Opinion

If she is in the process of looking for a new car, she will repeatedly ask you for your opinion on what kind of car she should get and what dealership she should get it at. She wants your opinion on how she should go about fixing something around the house. She wants your opinion on which sports team you think will win the game on Sunday. This is how she tries to make you feel more macho and important.

18. She Often Asks About The Well-Being Of People You Care About

She will ask you about how a specific person in your life is doing and will even go into specifics. If she had learned from you in the past that a certain person you care about was about to undergo a venture or activity of some sort, she will ask you about it. She could do this the next time you see her which could be weeks or months later. She didn't forget.

19. She Defends You

You may have been particularly rude one day or just not yourself, but she finds ways to defend you. She will say that you just had a bad day or you were going through something. She will even find ways to blame the people around you for your behavior or poor performance. If someone else is voicing a negative opinion about your behavior, she defends you whether you are physically there or not.

20. She Makes Frequent Changes To Her Physical Appearance

She starts getting a lot more haircuts and hairdos than she used to. Every other time you see her, she looks different in some capacity and will try to make you aware of it. If she changed her hairstyle, she plays with her hair in the hopes that you notice the change. If she got a tan, she runs her fingers lightly along her hand to draw your attention to her new tan.

21. She Remembers Details About Passing Conversations

She remembers what you tell her in detail and will bring it up in consequent conversations. You may have thought you made light mention about an incident but she will remember details about it. Even if you only spoke to her for a brief minute or two in passing, she will remember those conversations in detail and will bring up the same topics in future encounters.

22. She Will Make Sure You Notice That She Is Present

She may be in a room filled with people and she notices that you are also within the vicinity. Even if you are at the other side of the room, she will find a way to get to your side of the room in the hopes that you notice her. She may not initiate conversation but she will try to get your attention by either raising her voice or walking past you a few times.

23. She Giggles Nervously

She giggles when you are around. She will giggle when you are talking to her even when you aren't cracking a joke. She also giggles when she is around other people but knows that you are close by. It's a nervous giggle that is normally spurred by attraction and the need to have some kind of release from the tension of being in your presence.

24. She Puts Her Immediate Plans On Hold

She had immediate plans to do something with friends or family but she decides to put that on hold because you suddenly need someone to go to a social meet with or a game. She will often put her plans on hold to be your accomplice. She hopes that you notice her sacrifice and reward her by liking her back.

25. She Makes Herself Available

She often seems conveniently available. Her Fridays always seem to be open and she will often ask you what your plans are for that weekend. She will even go as far as talk about how bored she gets on the weekends and then follow up with asking you about what you tend to do on the weekends.

26. She Includes And Aligns You In Her Future Plans

Whenever she talks about her future, she always finds ways to include and align you in it by asking what your plans are. She will then find a way to correlate both of your plans to make it seem like you are both on a similar trajectory. She does this to make you feel reassured that you both have sustainable chemistry.

27. She Often Shares Something With You That She May Be Eating Or Drinking

She may be eating or drinking something and will offer you some. To be more blunt, she will try to share the exact same one with you. If she is eating a donut, she offers you the other half and allows you to break it off. If she is sipping on a drink and you ask her a question about what it is, she may hand you the drink to try out for yourself. There is a soft form of intimacy that comes with this kind of sharing.

28. She Gets Better At Something To Impress You

She doesn't know much about how to throw a football but she watches you practice all the time. She decides to start learning how to do it by asking her guy friends to show her or playing along with them. When she has the opportunity to show off her new skill in your presence, she shows off in order to impress you by throwing that ball as hard and far as she can.

29. She Gets Jealous

She gets jealous when she notices that you are getting female attention. She notices a girl taking up a lot of your time. She decides to make it known that she doesn't approve. To do this, she will either often interrupt you while you are talking to her or she will bring a friend of hers along in order to create a distraction. This way, her friend can talk to the girl that you were talking to and she can focus on you.

30. She Checks Out Your Phone

If you return to her and notice that your phone is in a slightly different position from where you left it, she was checking your phone. She did this while you were away taking your bathroom break or whatever you were doing. She wants to know how many girl numbers you have on your phone, which one you interacted with recently and what was discussed. This is how she scopes out her competition.

31. She Mimics Some Of Your Dressing Habits

She may have noticed that you tend to wear the jerseys of some of your favorite football or basketball players. She begins to wear more sports jerseys herself that represent the sport you love. She also mimics the colors you wear. If you wear blue a lot, she will wear more outfits with or in blue. This is because when she is out shopping and sees an outfit in this color, she subconsciously thinks of you.

32. She Returns Your Texts Very Quickly

She often returns your texts within a few minutes of you sending them. She will talk about the topic at hand but will also begin to branch out of the topic. She does this to keep the text conversation going. After a while, if she knows that she will be unable to keep the text conversation going for much longer because of something she has to do, she will often let you know before ending the text conversation.

33. Her Texts Get Longer And More Detailed Over Time

Her texts to you will begin to become more detailed as time passes and she gets more and more fond of you. You will notice that the previous one phrase responses start becoming paragraphs of text. She is becoming more emotionally involved at this point and wants to express and open herself up more freely to you.

34. She Wears More Perfume Even For Mundane Activities

If you have known her for a while as a person who normally doesn't wear that much perfume save for special occasions, that may change relatively quickly. The more you are around her, the more perfume she exudes. Sometimes, she will even ask you if you like it.

35. She Uncharacteristically Snaps At You

She gets short with you at times. Typically, she does this when you haven't really given her the kind of acknowledgment or attention she wants that day. She may even be having a bad day and you have done nothing to soothe her. She then snaps at you for something trite or nonsensical because she is trying to get back at you for not paying her the right kind of attention.

36. She Notices Your Grooming

She notices that you just got a haircut or your beard trimmed by mentioning it. She doesn't necessarily compliment you on it but she acknowledges it. She notices that your fingers are manicured. She will even use that as an opportunity to hold your hands to inspect them in order to have that physical connection with you. She will often notice and comment on your grooming.

37. She Takes A Keen Interest In Your Career Path

She is invested in your career path. She will even suggest books to read to help encourage you to stay the course. Whether you are studying to become something in the future or you are already working a professional job, she will typically ask you about how it's all going. If she knows someone on the same career path, she will try to connect you with the person. In her mind, your success is her success.

38. She Flirts With You

Her flirting can be light or intense. On the light side, she may make a raunchy joke about a body part during conversation. On the intense side and depending on how comfortable she is with you, she may reveal some of her own intimate preferences.

39. She Grooms You

She takes it upon herself to give you a haircut under the guise that she can save you money from having to go to a barber. She gives you suggestions on some of the best shampoos and conditioners that you can use for your hair. She gives you suggestions on the best creams you can use for your skin.

40. She Adjusts Your Clothing

She suddenly starts shifting a tie or neck collar that was out of place. She may ask for your permission at first, but other times, she may feel more emboldened to just do it. She also picks out any loose wool or lint that may be on your clothing. All of this kind of behavior causes more proximity to you, as well as touch. This is how she gets to create more of an ease with you.

41. She Talks About Her Accomplishments

She talks about what she has accomplished in life that she is proud of. She tries to do it in a way that is not conceited by reinforcing her desire to be better and do more. She wants to demonstrate that she has drive and that she would be a worthy person to have around who won't be a burden to you, both financially and socially.

42. She Watches Her Verbal Etiquette

Depending on her upbringing, she may not want to use too many expletives in your presence. She will keep swear words to a minimum, if any. She doesn't want to appear unladylike. She will also avoid the more profound expletives. If she uses them, she will normally do so when she has gotten to know you better.

43. She Shares Personal Stories

This normally happens when she has built a relatively strong degree of rapport with you. She confides in you. She tells you some personal stories about a family or personal struggle. She doesn't do it to gain sympathy. She typically does it when she knows that you also have a personal story that is similar to that. This is how she draws a connection and a pattern of similarity with your life experience.

44. She Asks More Questions About Your Background

She wants to get an idea of where you come from and what some of your life experience has been like. By asking you more questions about your background, she can decipher whether there are shared experiences. She can also start getting a sense of what your values are. The more values she discovers that she shares with you, the more she likes you and wants to be with you.

45. She Wants To Know More About Your Relationship With Your Family

She really becomes curious about the kind of relationship you have with your family and the kind of value you place on those relationships. She is curious about your closeness to your mother. If you have sisters, she is curious about that too. She may ask questions around those relationships. She is trying to get the sense of whether you treat them well because if you do, you may treat her well too.

46. She Sides With You When It Comes To Your Ex

She has only gotten your side of the story but she already sides with you. She believes that you were the one who was done wrong by your ex and that you deserve a lot better. She will let you know that. She will tell you that you did the right thing in breaking up with her or in not taking her back. She secretly wants to be the one that you replace her with.

47. She Cocks Her Head At You

When you are having intense conversations with her and she cocks her head at you, she is showing you that you have her attention and she also empathizes with what you are saying. She may follow that up with a look away and a look back. When she looks away, she is letting all the information sink in. When she looks back and cocks her head again, she wants you to understand that she genuinely cares.

48. She Asks More Specific Questions About Your Exes

She has an interest in your previous relationships. She asks about them in a way that doesn't come off as too much prying. She may even start off by telling you about an ex-boyfriend and then asks you if you have had similar experiences. From there, she can delve into the specifics of those relationships. She doesn't want to make the same mistakes they did. If she gets you, she hopes to keep you.

49. You Remind Her Of Someone

She often mentions that you remind her of someone from her past. She may even be as forward or blatant by stating that you remind her of a past boyfriend. She will often do this in a positive way by mentioning her past boyfriend's positive qualities. People tend to date what they are familiar with. Her past boyfriend would be familiar and being that you remind her of him, you would be familiar too.

50. She Makes Fun Of You

She finds ways to make fun of you that won't offend you. She will typically do this once she has gotten a good idea of your temperament and sense of humor. She will typically pick out something attractive about you and make fun of that. This way she knows that you are already in on the joke.

CLICK HERE TO DOWNLOAD MORE EBOOKS.

DatingLogic.net